

Join The Hub, ILGA-Europe's free Resource Sharing Centre for LGBTI activists in Europe and Central Asia

News, Inclusion and Equality, Community Organising, Strategic Communications

Today we are publicly launching The Hub – ILGA-Europe's free Resource Sharing Centre for LGBTI activists in Europe and Central Asia.

The Hub is an easily accessible online platform for LGBTI activists in Europe and Central Asia. Through it, ILGA-Europe offers various resource 'cards' that contain information and guides around certain thematic areas of work. You will find dozens of resources already in the thematic sections on campaigning, communications, community, fundraising, management, security, wellbeing and Russian language cards. Each card contains comprehensive information around a particular area of work.

In recent months a number of activists from ILGA-Europe member organisations have already joined us. Today we ask you to join us too!

As activist, you can proactively contribute to building resources by sharing case studies. Simply click 'add case study' in the card that you want to contribute to and share your experience. We will then review your case study.

Want to help make the Hub a success? Here are four things to do now:

1. Join today – by creating your own account at <https://hub.ilga-europe.org>
2. Check the community guidelines – to understand how the Hub works <https://hub.ilga-europe.org/code-of-conduct/>
3. Spread the word – and tell other LGBTI activists in Europe and Central Asia to join us. Here's a tweet you can share now!
4. Help us keep the Hub a safe place – and get your account verified once you've signed up. This way you can access content that is marked sensitive.