

COVID-19 impacts on LGBTI communities in Europe and Central Asia: A rapid assessment report

Report, Inclusion and Equality, Covid-19

COVID-19 and the resulting measures to contain and combat the virus are generating complex challenges and risks. While the virus does not discriminate per se, it is very clear that it hits marginalised communities in our societies disproportionately harder. In addition, social distancing and other prevention measures, as needed as they are, can have unwanted negative impacts on the lives of marginalised groups.
